INTRODUCTION

Another best and interesting peak climbing in the Khumbu region is Lobuche Peak Climbing. To complete this climbing we need to pass through Lobuche east summit standing on the height of 6119 m and Lobuche west summits standing on the height of 6145 m. These two summits are very giant and difficult in comparison to others. We will have the opportunity to have experience of adventurous activity on the land of Himalaya with a stunning view of great mountain ranges. Lobuche climbing is considered as the combination of Gokyo famous lake and base camp of Everest. Since Lobuche peak is difficult to climb; only a few climbers climbed this peak compared to another peak. Only the experienced and trained climber can climb this peak without any difficulty. All the preparation should be done before we start our climb. There should be full management and training of all the technical and professional equipment before climbing this peak. Maximum route of this climb is situated at high altitude due to which we need to accumulate our self according to the climate in many places. We will not be lacked by viewpoint while climbing Lobuche peak.

Lobuche peak climbing is regarded as a challenging peak climbing in the Everest region. So our physical structure should be very good. All the document and permit should be made for each climber before climbing Lobuche peak. October, November, April, and May have the favorable climatic condition so this month are regarded as the best climbing month of the whole year. Do not worry to fulfill your dream to climb this peak. Just contact to Everest Trekking Routes. We are ready to do all the management for Lobuche Peak Climbing to you on any day of the year. The preparation of the schedule is done according to your wish in your holiday.
